

WHAT IS ANST?

The Association of Neuropsychology Students in Training (ANST) is the student organization for Division 40 (Clinical Neuropsychology) of The American Psychological Association.

Clinical Neuropsychology is a rapidly expanding profession that is one of the largest specialty groups within psychology with increasing numbers of graduate students in training to enter the field of clinical neuropsychology.

ABOUT ANST • • •

The purpose of ANST is to provide:

- A voice for students in training in clinical neuropsychology.
- A platform where students can come together to discuss training issues
- Important resources and services for aspiring clinical neuropsychologists.
- The opportunity to learn about issues that affect your professional and scientific interests.

There is no separate application for ANST membership: by joining APA Division 40 you automatically become a member of ANST!

FEATURES OF ANST • • •

CHAPTER & CHAPTER REPRESENTATIVE PROGRAMS

The main feature of ANST is a network of program chapters across the country. Chapters are headed by student representative(s) and are overseen by a faculty mentor. Applications can be found on the ANST website.

WEBSITE

The ANST website offers a central source of information on: chapter and representative programs, training programs, links, listservs, up-to-date conference information, and the Division 40 newsletter. The ANST website is <http://www.div40-anst.com>.

LISTSERV

Training, educational, and practice information is routinely sent out over the ANST listserv to our community of members. To join, send an email to listserv@lists.apa.org and in the body of your message type "SUBSCRIBE DIV40ANST (your name)" – you should receive a confirmation email. Whenever you wish to contribute to the listserv, email your message to div40anst@lists.apa.org.

STUDENT & CHAPTER SPOTLIGHTS

Several times per year, ANST highlights the hard work of one of its members and chapters on the website. Just think: YOU could be the next member or chapter featured!

CONFERENCE EVENTS

ANST holds regular events at major neuropsychology conferences every year where you can meet other representatives and chapters from around the country, including INS and APA.
